

FRC Code has changed, ICSA's issued new Guidelines

You need to be up to date

Want to gain these insights in a totally practical, fun and appropriate way?

Genius Methods invites you to an interactive, half-day training course on everything you need to know about Board Effectiveness and Board Evaluation Reviews

The Institute of Chartered Secretaries and Administrators (ICSA) has recently revised its guidance notes on the terms of reference for audit, nomination, remuneration, risk and executive committees and its guidance on matters reserved to the board. These guidance notes have been updated to reflect changes made by the Financial Reporting Council (FRC) to the UK Corporate Governance Code. Further information on Guidelines and link to ABI Governance report - Source.

Board effectiveness standards and best practices are ever-evolving and it is important to keep up to date on recent developments and how best to take ownership of changes that impact you Genius Methods is providing a training course for Chairmen, Directors and Company Secretaries, to understand the value of Board Effectiveness, understand today's "best practice", and how your Board can achieve optimum effectiveness.

This is a unique opportunity to learn from Genius Methods who are experienced board evaluators, and additionally focus on Board development and mentoring executives.

"Daily, we see the tangible value of effective Boards and are inspired by Boards who, like athletes, look for ongoing improvement." Constançon, CEO Genius Methods

The programme is interactive beginning with an understanding of the current key issues followed by a case study that brings the difficult Board issues to life.

Our training is different as most importantly we make the learning personal to your situation and help each delegate define and clarify a "take back home" nugget of how to make at least one real valuable change to improve their Board's effectiveness.

The steps of the course ensure your direct needs are addressed and you have a clear effectiveness action plan and timetable.

Previous delegates have said

"I learned much from both your explanation of why and how executive boards should conduct their evaluation / development"

"I was particularly struck by the important role of Non-Exec Directors (NEDs) and their legal liability in the context of crisis management"

"Well done on delivering the subject matter in such a polished and highly professional manner"

"Thank for the excellent workshop and highly relevant exercise and allow me to finish by saying that you are a quite outstanding presenter"

The interactive approach, role play and shared experiences provide a powerful clarity and understanding of the value of an effective Board

For full course outcomes and programme, follow this link

To register, please email Fiona Burgess at fburgess@geniusmethods.com

If you have any questions, please contact us

Spaces are limited, so please register as soon as possible.

www.geniusmethods.com / 01494 565 947

What we do

Genius Methods works with many Boards including FTSE, private sector, financial services, public sector, Charities, Trusts, Education councils, Memberships and SME's - it is about people in a team and how, together as a Board, they can achieve optimum effectiveness.